Oktatás célja:

Purpose of the course

The aim of the course is to offer a general introduction into the main areas and issues of social history. It touches on theoretical approaches but is mostly concerned with practical outcomes of the great transformations of the 19th-early 20th century (regarding demographic, economic, social changes). The course is designed for students with little or no background in the field of social history, the aim is to make them understand the shape of these major transformations in the late-19th century, their key features, their contexts, and their continuing relevance to contemporary culture, social life, and government.

Tantárgy tartalma:

Conduct of the course

This course is structured to make you an active participant. There is a text to be read in advance for each class that will be the base of further discussion (these texts are marked with * in the syllabus). In cases the lecture is accompanied with .ppt slides – that will be available on coospace right after each class. (Sign up at <https://coospace.tatk.elte.hu/>)

Számonkérési és értékelési rendszere:

The final grade is composed of two parts:

40% of the grade is given by the results of short tests written at the beginning of each class (questions concern texts read in advance for each class – those marked with *)

60% of the grade is given by the final exam (to be written in the exam period)
